

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Clients using standard software protocols may access a validation application server for validation service on data via a number of methods including Internet applications, a Java RMI server, a CORBA gateway server and graphical screen interphase applications. The validation server provides validation service on the data based on dynamically-maintained, centrally-stored validation functions.

1141396